2016 Annual Report

Covered Device Recycling Act

Overview

The Covered Device Recycling Act (CDRA), the act of November 23, 2010, P.L. 1083, No. 108, 35 P.S. §§ 6031.101 et seq., established a number of requirements for manufacturers, retailers and other entities to facilitate the recycling of electronic devices covered under the CDRA. Covered devices include: desktop computers, laptop computers, computer monitors, tablets, computer peripherals, televisions and e-readers that contain a browser and have Internet connectivity.

The CDRA established a manufacturer responsibility program with the objective of offering a readily available recycling opportunity to Pennsylvania citizens. The CDRA requires manufacturers to collect and recycle an amount equal to or greater than their two-year prior sales in pounds of covered devices, and it bans the disposal of covered devices in landfills.

Reporting Requirements

Section 502 of the CDRA requires the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to provide an annual report to the General Assembly that includes:

- The total weight of covered devices collected in the Commonwealth during the previous calendar year.
- A complete listing of all manufacturers' collection, transportation and recycling programs and collection sites operating in the Commonwealth during the prior calendar year, the parties that operated them and the amount of material by weight collected at each site.
- An evaluation of the effectiveness of the education and outreach program.
- An evaluation of the existing collection and processing infrastructure.
- Recommendations for expanding the program to include additional electronic devices.

2016 Report Information
35 P.S. § 6031.502.

The following information is provided to meet the reporting requirements of Section 502.

The total weight of covered devices collected in the Commonwealth during the previous calendar year.

In 2016, there were 62.7 million pounds of covered devices recycled by 55 manufacturers. This is similar to the 62.3 million pounds recycled by 61 manufacturers in 2015.

Nine companies failed to meet their obligation under the act, resulting in an estimated 1.7 million pounds of covered devices that were not collected.

A complete listing of all manufacturers' collection, transportation and recycling programs and collection sites operating in the Commonwealth during the prior calendar year, the parties that operated them and the amount of material by weight collected at each site.

A complete listing of collection, transportation and recycling programs and sites operating in the Commonwealth are provided in Appendices A through C. Because collection sites are not required by law or regulation to operate and maintain scales, the amount of material collected at each site is unavailable.

An evaluation of the effectiveness of the education and outreach programs.

In general, local governments have done an excellent job of publicizing electronics collection programs. DEP recommends that manufacturers and retailers continue to expand their education programs to emphasize where covered devices can be recycled and ensure collection sites are reasonably available to citizens throughout the year. In particular, manufacturers should create and maintain a telephone hotline for citizens to learn where they can recycle material, or why there is no viable option available.

An evaluation of the existing collection and processing infrastructure.

Issues continue with the collection and processing infrastructure necessary to implement the CDRA. DEP continues to work with the operators and managers of recycling collection programs to evaluate the existing collection and processing infrastructure. The same concerns DEP has heard previously are more prevalent due to the absence of reliable funding, low market values for materials, and the uncertainty of having the collected material covered by a manufacturer's plan.

The CDRA has not stimulated a dependable statewide infrastructure to ensure local governments, collectors, and recyclers are able to operate and provide recycling services on a continuing basis. Collection infrastructure is especially challenging because recyclers are hesitant to contract with counties as some collected electronics are not covered by manufacturers' goals.

Televisions and computer monitors that contain cathode ray tubes (CRTs) continue to be problematic for recycling due to the leaded glass in the CRTs, absence of low-cost recycling technology, and limited number of CRT processors. The high cost of transporting CRTs to processors and the actual processing cost is greater than the value of the material recovered, which makes those devices a negative value commodity. In response, some entities have reduced, limited, or eliminated CRTs from collection programs as illustrated in Appendix D. Nevertheless, the demand for opportunities to recycle old televisions continues to be high. Reports indicate that, by weight, 70 to 80 percent of the materials available for recycling are CRT-containing electronics, such as televisions.

Efforts to explore new technologies for processing CRT glass are ongoing; however, none have yet to be successfully deployed. Industry experts indicate that sufficient recycling opportunities exist to recycle CRT glass, provided the customer is willing to pay the going rate. An end market in Spain reportedly accepts any type of CRT glass at no cost provided the customer pays shipping costs.

The CDRA requires manufacturer programs to provide recycling access to 85 percent of the population; however, the landfill ban prohibiting the landfilling of covered devices applies to 100 percent of the population. These provisions in the CDRA continue to result in a confounding situation for citizens that may have limited or no opportunities for recycling, but are faced with a landfill ban on the material they wish to discard. In 2017 Pennsylvania Recycling Markets Center (RMC) analysis reported collection infrastructure has diminished to the point of only 30 collection sites in the entire Commonwealth that take covered devices without restriction, which is two fewer sites than in 2015. According to this analysis, provided as Appendix D, only 27.5 percent of the population has unrestricted access to recycling opportunities under CDRA. Restrictions on recycling sites invariably involve television recycling. Consequently, the ongoing inadequacy of viable television recycling options has exacerbated the proliferation of illegal television dumping as reported by county recycling coordinators.

Recommendations for expanding the program to include additional electronic devices.

DEP has no recommendations at this time for expanding the program to include additional electronic devices.
